

Ipomoea carnea Jacq.

Family: Convolvulaceae

Common name: Bush morning glory

Local name: Aakh

Importance:

- The milky juice of this plant is used for the treatment of leukoderma and other related skin diseases, as well as topical anti-septic in lesions.
- The boiled roots are used as laxative and menstruation provocation.
- It is used for rheumatism and gout treatment.
- Used against venereal diseases, dysentery, hypertension and immunodeficiency.